WATER AS FUEL.

In this age of progressive science perhaps greater marvels have been accomplished than the fact of extracting heat and light from the waters of the oceans, lakes, rivers; and it is scarcely safe to predict that the great revolution of substituting that element for coal and other fuel will not be effected before the close of the present century. At all events, it is claimed by an Eastern chemist that he has solved the problem of separating the constituent elements of water, oxygen and hydrogen, in such a manner as to utilize them as gases, thus producing heat and light independent of coal, wood or other combustible matter. It would be almost impossible to estimate the value of such an invention, provided the process is not too costly, and the inventor would doubtless become the richest man in the world if his inventive genius was combined with such business qualifications as would enable him to reap the full pecuniary benefit of his discovery. If the claims of the Eastern scientist should prove well founded, it would practically close down all of the coal mines in the world and send the stock of all oil and gas companies to a long way below par. It would supplant all other fuel now used for steam, domestic or other purposes, and entirely revolutionize all present systems of motive power. The ocean steamships would devote the space now used for coal to freight, and drawing water from the sea, evaporate the salt, and use the purified fluid for fuel. The water mills would be abandoned, for all the power necessary to run the machinery could be procured from the smallest streams, or such springs or wells as would furnish the trifling amount of water necessary for the purpose. Where fuel is too high to allow of manufacturing upon an extensive scale and where the people have to draw their manufactured supplies from long distances, the difficulty would be easily overcome and all localities would be perfectly independent. While this discovery or alleged discovery may prove a failure as have others in the same line before it, there is no doubt but the present means of producing power will be radically changed before many years. It is easy enough in these days of rapid progress to predict great changes, but there is a firm belief in the minds of scientific men who have investigated the subject that the methods of producing power, now in vogue, will be superseded by some invention which will settle the world and revolutionize the motive machinery.

MR. FITCH REPLIES TO MR. CASSIDY.

RENO, July 21, 1890.

EDITOR STATE JOURNAL: Mr. Cassidy, of the Eureka Sentinel, in the last issue of that valuable journal, assumes to be curious as to whether I intend to "accept the work" of the Republican party in Congress upon the silver question. I had not flattered myself that my opinion upon this or any subject was of sufficient consequence to inspire the curiosity or provoke the comment of Mr. Cassidy, but I have no objection to repeating here that which I said in substance in a communication to the Reno Gazette at the time of the passage of the bill on purchasing law. I hope that the law recently enacted will advance largely and permanently the value of silver, and thus expedite the ultimate restoration of free coinage, and I do not doubt that the free coinage Republicans who voted for the law did so with this expectation and because it was better in their judgment than no law at all. Personally I have little hope that any such favorable result will be achieved, and I do not believe that any adequate remedy for the evils wrought by the demoralization law of 1873 will be found except in unconditional repeal of that law and restoration of silver to free and unlimited coinage. I am very sorry that Republicans east of the Missouri river generally voted against free coinage, and I join Mr. Cassidy in the regret which he doubtless feels, although he does not express it, that the Democrats east of the Alleghenies, including their recent and prospective candidate for the Presidency, are nearly solid against the double standard. But I submit to the well known fairness of Mr. Cassidy that as neither the Republicans nor the Democrats in this State endorse the action of their Eastern party associates on this question, and as the Republicans by the resolutions of their State Central Committee have formally denounced such action, and as the Democrats doubtless in spirit denounce the anti-free coinage doctrines of Mr. Cleveland and the New York, New England and Middle State Democracy, although as yet they have not formally said so, whether either Republicans or Democrats in this State should gain advantage or suffer disadvantage by actions of their Eastern party associates which they can not control, and have distinctly repudiated.

May I be pardoned for suggesting in conclusion that Mr. Cassidy would better serve the cause of free coinage to which he is so greatly devoted, and of which he is so distinguished and able an advocate, if he would devote his great talents to continued advocacy of that cause, rather than to an effort to place the Republicans of Nevada in a position which he must know they have never assumed and cannot be driven to occupy.

THOMAS FITCH.

The Pioneers and Native Sons have settled their difference, and will join together in celebrating the anniversary of California's admission to the Union.

THE SILVER VICTORY.

The New York Herald, of July 9th, says

of Senator Jones, of Nevada, has carried the day for silver. After a long and bitter controversy the silver question has taken the position most satisfactory to the Senator, who was in command of the silver forces. He probably does not get what he wanted, but much more than he expected. The silver men were wise to instruct their campaign to a leader with so much experience, ability and courage.

Now that we are to have unlimited silver, what next? It is an experiment not to be viewed without alarm. The question will remain: Can a government make money out of anything but money? Is real money anything but gold? Does not the power to give silver a gold value imply the power to give the same value to iron and copper? Can legislation make a token into a coin? And if we are prepared to transmute our silver into gold values at the rate of so many ounces a month, are we also prepared to do the same for the ingots of Europe and Asia?

Perhaps a silver exclusion bill could be passed based on the principles of the Chinese Restriction Act, forbidding the importation of the rupee, the tael and the franc. Such a measure would be effective until the machinery was prepared for changing the foreign silver into bright new, shining American coins—the Eagle and the Goddess of Liberty in full, unquestioned glory. The machinery for this transformation exists, we believe, in Birmingham.

Our Western friends, however, are bent on having their silver. They have dreamed themselves into an ecstasy over the benefits that will come to their crops and society at large. We hope that every illusion will be realized. No one will be better satisfied than those who have done what they could to prevent this doubtful experiment.

The New York World, of the 9th, refers to the fight as follows:

There is no essential difference between the compromise silver bill and a simple free coinage measure so far as direct effects upon the currency are concerned. This bill will convert all the silver in the market into money in the form of Treasury notes, and a free coinage bill could do no more.

STEWART DOWNS POWELL.

According to the dispatches, Senator Stewart has got the best of Powell, Director of the Geological Survey. The Senate has eliminated from the Civil Sundry bill the appropriation of $777,000 for irrigation surveys. A Washington dispatch says:

There is much regret expressed here among Westerners that there should have been so much dissension over irrigation matters. The differences existing between those high in authority has had the effect of sacrificing a handsome appropriation for irrigation purposes.

Both sides of the question have been so well argued by well posted men, that it is hard to determine just what plan would be best, but the impression prevails here that either Powell's or Stewart's plan would have been far preferable to the existing state of affairs—no appropriation at all.

The discussion, however, has had one good effect, viz., the repeal of the law which reserves irrigable lands from settlement. If Senator Stewart's theory is correct, and his strictures upon Powell merited, the appropriation would have been of but little practical benefit to anyone, except those connected with its disbursement. Under the circumstances, therefore, the repeal of the Act above referred to may be regarded as having been cheaply purchased at the expense of a sum of money which, even if honestly disbursed, would not have helped the actual settler to an acre of the land for the improvement of which the appropriation was intended.

Why don't the Democratic papers that are growing about the silver bill complain of the effect it has had upon the price of silver? The metal has advanced nearly twenty per cent. since it was evident that there would be favorable legislation, and it is several cents higher now than when the Act was signed by the President. The true proof of a pudding is in the eating, although our Democratic contemporaries persist in inspiring their conclusions by gawping at the bag.

Nevada must reduce her governmental expenses largely to maintain her Statehood. No considerable reduction can be made under our present Constitution. Experience has proven that a Constitutional Convention is the only means by which the necessary changes can be made in our organic law. None of these facts will be denied and yet we hear that there are a few persons in the State who will oppose the calling of a convention.

This is from the San Francisco Post:

Since Mr. Cleveland's party has in Congress committed itself to the policy of free coinage, we may expect him shortly to address one of his solemn epistles to somebody or other in Nevada or Colorado recently, previous views, which were also uttered with solemnity. Mr. Cleveland possesses a faculty for gravity of utterance which makes every friend of the pulpit experience a profound regret that he was lost to the ministry.

The fraud and corruption, the bull-dozing and buying, are all on the Republican side in this State.—Sentinel.

Tut, tut, George. Have you forgotten the fair sack of '80 which pulled you into Congress, Uncle Jimmy into the Senate and carried the State for the Democratic electoral ticket?

From the London Mining Journal we learn that the Ruby Dunderberg Company of Eureka have carried out their reconstruction successfully, and are to-day in a better financial situation than they have been for years. The company's mines and business are in good hands at this end.

The Carson Tribune says:

From present appearances Jas. D. Torreyson, of this county, will have a clear field for the Republican nomination for Attorney General. Torreyson is a representative young Republican, and will add strength to the ticket and fill the position with credit.

Hunting for Mines.

Nearly all of our State exchanges make mention of the arrival of mining men and experts in their localities, for the purpose of examining mining properties with a view to purchase. In many instances they are bound for outside districts which have not been visited by anyone except the owners of claims therein, since they were organized, and which have heretofore failed to attract the notice or attention of capitalists or those on the lookout for favorable prospects to bond for speculative purposes. There is doubtless greater activity in that line than at any time in the last ten years and the probability is that more sales will be effected and a greater number of properties developed this season than during the entire time we have mentioned. This change is directly attributable to the passage of the Silver Bill which has acted like magic in awakening renewed interest in silver mining, as is indicated by the active search for favorable opportunities to invest in properties which would have remained dormant for years to come, but for such favorable legislation in the interest of the white metal.

An Apache M. D.

Dr. Carlos Montezuma, says the Times-Review, arrived by last evening's stage, en route for the Duck Valley Reservation to take the place of Dr. Robinson, who has gone East. Dr. Montezuma is a full blooded Apache, who when but five years of age was stolen by another tribe and sold to the whites, who placed him at school in one of the Eastern States. He is a graduate of the Illinois State University and for several years has been stationed at Bismarck, Dakota. He talks the English language fluently and knows no other, and is thoroughly Americanized in everything except complexion.

Messenger's Body Found.

Last Thursday, says the Truckee Republican, a man in the employ of the Mountain Ice Co., at Oata, discovered the body of a man in the Truckee river. It was secured and was at once recognized as being the body of Richard Messenger, who was drowned at Cinton on the 7th inst. The news of the find was sent up the road and yesterday Deputy Coroner Liggett went down and held an inquest. The testimony was the same as that published at the time of the accident and the verdict was rendered to the effect that the deceased came to his death by accidental drowning. The funeral took place at Boca yesterday.

Nearly Drowned.

At Laughlin's Springs yesterday afternoon while Dr. Mullin and Mr. W. Caffrey were bathing in one of the pools, the Doctor was seized with a fit of nervous coughing and, losing control of himself sank in that condition. He would doubtless have been drowned but for the prompt assistance rendered by Mr. Caffrey who heard him coughing and strangling under the water and at once hastened to his rescue. The Doctor was unconscious when taken upon the platform but soon recovered and shortly afterwards declared himself ready for the next fishing trip.

Oroville Shocked.

Oroville's "Four Hundred" is dreadfully worked up. A few days ago a number of young people of both sexes went picnicking. The day was hot and all hands joined in wading in a pond. One of the young men had a Kodak with him and got some photographs of neat limbs. After awhile the boys went into the brush and the girls went swimming without bathing suits. Again the Kodak got in its deadly work, and the photographs have since been shown to several people. The young men have left town for awhile.

Complimentary Letter.

VIRGINIA, July 19, 1890.

PETER WEST, Esq.—My Dear Sir:—Notwithstanding past differences, I have no hesitation in saying that your work as enumerator of District No. — shows you to be thorough in your business; besides it is done in a very neat and very creditable manner. My chief clerk, Mr. Graham, joins me in saying that no single enumerator in the State can show a better piece of work. Very respectfully,

GEO. J. LAMMON,
County Supervisor of Nevada.

"Diamondville."

The Diamond mine, says the Eureka Sentinel, is reported to be looking away up. The new boarding house is the handsomest and most substantial structure of the kind in this district. A large gang of mechanics and laborers are busily engaged in the erection of the new machinery below the mouth of the new tunnel, which is now in about 300 feet. "Diamondville" presents a very solid and businesslike appearance, and will, no doubt, be to Eureka in the future what Ruby Hill was in the past.

Beats the Railroad.

T. R. McGinn, the Comstock grocer, runs a six-horse fast freight team daily between Reno and Virginia City. It carries fruits and vegetables which are shipped from California, and as it leaves immediately upon the arrival of the morning train the freight reaches Virginia about noon, whereas if shipped on the railroad it would not get there in time to be placed on the market until the following day.

The Western Mail.

The times for closing the Western mail to the Reno postoffice are as follows:

The Western mail closes at 8 p. m.

The through pouch for San Francisco closes at 8:45 a. m.

The through pouch for Sacramento closes at 8:45 a. m.

Anarchists in New York.

I attended the first meeting of the Radical club at Cooper institute the other evening. It is composed of Anarchists, Socialists, Nationalists and Henry George followers. It is founded for all liberal and advanced thinkers, and its members expect great things from it. I had always supposed that Anarchists and Socialists were long hair, soiled linen and smelled horribly. I confess I was surprised to see the well dressed men and women who crowded the room.

Tall silk hats gave me a distinct shock, and rosebud buttonholes in lapels of fashionably cut coats made my eyes open very wide. I was amazed when two dandish young men with pompadoured heads and waxen mustaches were pointed out to me as fiery and bloodthirsty Anarchists, and one heavy swell of the club window type nearly took my breath away when he walked up to the woman treasurer and, presenting his card with his best Fifth Avenue bow, asked to be permitted to pay his entrance fee.

I noticed especially the presence of young men. There was row after row of young, intelligent, earnest faces. Eager, too, and interested. There was none of the vacuity of expression, the listlessness, the ennui which is to be seen on Fifth Avenue. Whatever their doctrines, they believe in them thoroughly and are going to promulgate them though the heavens fall.—New York Cor. Chicago Herald.

A Bull with Two Months.

A large number of persons visited Samuel Gugenheim's abattoir, at Forty-sixth street and First Avenue, to see a natural curiosity in the shape of a full grown black and white bull having two separate mouths, each containing teeth. The animal is 4 years old, weighs about 700 pounds, and was raised on a farm near Yonkers by Mr. Robinson. The second mouth hangs from the dewlap, half way between the base of the jaw and the shoulder. It is pouch shaped, seven inches long, five inches wide, and has an opening or mouth in the bottom about four inches across. In this month are nostrils and several well developed teeth. The animal breathes and drinks through both mouths and eats with the upper one. The head is well shaped, and the only other peculiarities are a double right shoulder, with the shoulder blade extending to the line of the backbone, and a double jointed left fore leg. The bull is gentle and is in the best of condition.—New York Tribune.

Jamaica's Great Exhibition.

The Jamaica exhibition, which is to be opened by Prince George of Wales about Christmas, bids fair to be a very great success. Our North American squadron is then to be at Kingston, as well as a United States squadron, and also several ships of war belonging to France, Germany, Russia, Denmark and Italy. The Americans intend to be large exhibitors. This exhibition, of which Sir Henry Blake was the original promoter, is exciting enthusiastic interest in Jamaica, and it seems likely to be of great and lasting benefit to the island by encouraging the development of natural industries and natural resources, which have been comparatively neglected since the ruin of the old West India "interest" by the emancipation of the slaves.—London Truth.

An Electric Brake for Trains.

A new electric train brake works upon the inside face of the wheels, or rather upon an iron disk fitted to it. The disk or annular ring is a large plate of iron of considerable thickness and several inches in depth, and is securely bolted to the inner side of the wheel. Opposite this is another, which encircles the axle loosely and is fixed by stays in such a manner that it cannot revolve with the wheel, but can be removed laterally so as to come in contact with or recede from the ring attached to the wheel. It is attached to powerful magnetic coils and constitutes a large electro-magnet. When the electric current is applied to it it is powerfully attracted to the plate on the wheel, with the effect of arresting its revolution and so acting as a brake.—Chicago Herald.

A New Burgess Sloop.

The Gossoon is the name of a new sloop that is soon to slide over the ways from the yard of Messrs. Lawley & Sons, and take its place among the fast sloops designed by Mr. Burgess. She is about forty feet in length; the mast is thirty-five feet, and will carry a mainsail, fore-staysail, jib, jibtop-sail and gafftopsail, and when she is dead before the wind can add a spinnaker. The Gossoon is owned by the Messrs. Adams, and is being built to race against the Minerva.—Boston Traveller.

The "alternating mosquito bar" is said to be the name of the latest device for fanning the attempts of the mosquito to disturb one's sleep. It is simply a fine, flexible wire cloth or netting, which drapes the bed like a canopy. A small electric lamp, fed with power from a not too strong battery from beneath the bed, vitalizes the wires sufficiently to devitalize the unwary bird of Jersey foolish enough to connect with the netting in search for gore.

During the summer the new defenses at the "Needles," on the English coast, are to be tested by an elaborate series of experiments. It is proposed to find out whether the Brennan torpedo, for which England paid $500,000, can stop a vessel passing up at full speed, and also if hostile ships could escape the fire from the batteries by keeping close under the cliffs.

Stanislaus Litsevitich, a wealthy citizen of Liubartoff, Russia, who was severely bitten by a mad dog thirty years ago, has just died of hydrophobia after frightful torments. The doctors declare that there is no doubt that the original bite was the cause of the disease.

Segond A. Qual, a Norwegian, died recently in Eau Claire, Wis., leaving $1,000,000 for the establishment of a hospital at Madison for persons crippled and deformed from birth. He made his fortune in timber lands in Wisconsin.

Summer Literary Poison.

Almost every one starting off for the summer takes some reading matter. It is a book out of the library, or off the bookstand, or bought of the boy hawkling books through the cars. I really believe there is more trash read among the intelligent classes in July and August than in all the other ten months of the year. Men and women who at home would not be satisfied with a book that was not really sensible, I find sitting on hotel piazzas or under the trees reading books the index of which would make them blush if they knew that you knew what the book was. "Oh," they say, "you must have intellectual recreation." Yes, there is no need that you take along to a watering place "Hamilton's Metaphysics," or some ponderous discourse on the eternal decrees, or "Faraday's Philosophy." There are many easy books that are good.

You might as well say, "I propose now to give a little rest to my digestive organs, and instead of eating heavy meat and vegetables I will, for a little while, take lighter food—a little strychnine and a few grains of ratsbane." Literary poison in August is as bad as literary poison in December. Mark that. Do not let the vermin of a corrupt printing press jump and crawl into your Saratoga trunk or White Mountain valise. Are there not good books that are easy to read—books of entertaining travel, books of congenial history, books of pure fun, books of poetry, ringing with merry canto; books of fine engraving, books that will rest the mind as well as purify the heart and elevate the whole life? There will not be an hour between this and the day of your death when you can afford to read a book lacking in moral principle.—T. De Witt Talmage in Ladies' Home Journal.

Prince of the Comoros.

Another sable personage is now visiting Paris in the person of Prince Mardjane, of the Comoro Islands, which lie off the east coast of Africa near Mozambique. He is here in order, it is said, to furnish the government with information concerning his country, but this would seem to be a vague, semi-official explanation of his presence in Paris. Whatever may be the object of the prince's coming he has neglected to provide himself with an interpreter through whom he could make his business known; and when he and his secretary appeared at the ministry of marine not a single official could understand a word which either of the strangers uttered.

After a weary waste of atrocious French on the one hand and of absurd Arabic on the other an interpreter was summoned hastily and some light was at last thrown on the wishes and intention of the distinguished black. Prince Mardjane has had a perilous voyage from his native land, for he was shipwrecked a few days after its shores receded from his view and, having been picked up by an English vessel, he was taken to the Cape.—Paris Letter.

Grew Old While Drowning.

Richard L. Edwards, 19 years old, was drowned while rowing on the Ohio. The body was swept beneath some barges and could not be recovered. Friday a corpse was found floating in the river near Rising Sun, Ind. On the body was a watch and ring both bearing the initials R. L. E. Apparently the body was that of a man at least 50 years of age with snow white hair.

Edwards' brother positively identified the body from the jewelry and clothing. When the young man fell into the river his hair was coal black; that of the corpse was pure white. Fright doubtless made the change while he was struggling for life. There has been great excitement along the river over the mysterious case. It is the first instance on record where a man was prematurely aged while drowning.—Cincinnati Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

Gift to Richmond College.

The family—wife and children—of T. C. Williams have given $25,000 to endow a law professorship in Richmond college. Some months before his death Mr. Williams sent to Treasurer C. H. Ryland his check for $10,000 to aid in endowing the college and at the same time he offered to give $5,000 toward endowing a chair of law, conditioned on the raising of $20,000 more in a given time. The condition was not complied with, and of course Mr. Williams' estate was released from the obligation to pay the $5,000. But now his wife and children step forward and pay the entire $25,000, and thus give to Richmond college the T. C. Williams law professorship.—Richmond Herald.

The Fashionable Fox Terrier.

Every dog has his day, and the fashionable dog of just this present day is unquestionably the fox terrier. Abundant evidence of this fact can be picked up any fine afternoon by a walk through a fashionable New York thoroughfare. The younger set of men about town, almost to a man, own fox terriers. Their sisters and the other fellows' sisters of their acquaintance own them; blushing school girls own them, and like certain kinds of patent medicine, children cry for them. Indeed, it may be truly said that there are few well to do families who have not at one time or another had one of these sprightly, intelligent and pugnacious little dogs.—New York Tribune.

A thoroughbred Poland China sow, owned in Mount Leonard, Mo., recently gave birth to a hairless, flesh colored monstrosity, with head, ears, teeth and one fore foot resembling a bull pup, and the rest of its body resembling a pig. All who have seen the thing unite in declaring its resemblance to the dog family, though its skin is almost human and its body that of a hog.

A school teacher in Marcellus, Mich., received the following note from an angry parent: "May 18.90 when my Boys are Staying away from School I have Work For them; and when They are here you Teach them, and when They are to home, that is non of your Business you hant rearing My Shenty not by a good side, at my home."

Preparations are afoot to discover where the sawdust floating down the Truckee comes from and for having it stopped before the 200,000 Eastern speckled trout minnows in the pond above town, are turned into the river. It will be useless to attempt to cultivate that species of fish as long as the poisonous substance is turned into the stream.

NEW TO-DAY.

The story is told of a man, who took the hands of his clock to the maker to have them fixed, because they did not keep proper time. Of course the clock-maker demanded the work, and as there lay the trouble. Bells and chimes, and other eruptions on the exterior tell of a disordered condition of the blood within. If you have these indications, be wise in time, and take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts the liver and kidneys in good working order, purifies the blood, cleanses the system from all impurities from whatever cause arising, and tones up the functions generally.

"Golden Medical Discovery" checks the frightful inroads of Scrofula, and it takes in time, arrests the march of Consumption of the Lungs (which is Lung-Scrofula), purifies and enriches the blood, thereby curing all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Ulcers, Sores, Swellings and kindred ailments. It is tonic as well as alterative, and blood-cleansing, in its effects, hence it strengthens the system and restores vitality, thereby dispelling all those languid "dread feelings" experienced by the debilitated. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Salt-rhomb, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Goiter, or Throat Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

"Golden Medical Discovery" is the only blood and lung remedy, sold by druggists and purveyors by its manufacturers, to do all that it is claimed to accomplish, or money paid for it will be refunded. WORLD'S DISPENSARY, MANUFACTURERS, CINCINNATI, O.

A Piscatory Outing.

(COMMUNICATED.)

A jolly party of festive fishermen left Reno on Friday's train, and returned yesterday with baskets and boxes filled with fine trout from Lake Independence.

Each and every one of the party is enthusiastic over the successful results of the trip, as well as the magnificent scenery at the lake, the romantic drive to the lake, the superior accommodations furnished by the proprietor of the Independence Lake Hotel and the beautiful and sublime combination of bleak, dreary Winter and sunny Summer with its verdure green.

The lake in the early morning with its mirror-like surface, with the myriads of trout jumping, and the magnificent reflections of the green forests and snowy mountains furnish a picture for a pen to write a more beautiful and charming description than that of "Lake Como" by Claude Melnotte in the great play of the "Lady of Lyons."

The fun commenced when the fish started to "catch on"—that is, to interview the succulent grub worm and the brown backie flies. Conductor Asa Willis, the "sick man" who runs the Truckee route, was one of the experts, and manipulated his end of the line to perfection, and it did not matter which end of the line he was at. He will "join the gang" on the next outing. Electricity in this decade of the nineteenth century having proven an important factor in everything that pertains to make the "wheels go round" was represented by Mr. W. G. Caffrey, who made regular circuits with his brown hankies, and was not behind the party with his "catch." The management and general deportment of the party was superintended by Mr. Jerry White, of the C. P., and every one must know that the general deportment and behavior of the crowd was just right. Clem L. Jerry fished for dear life, and was determined to have a fine trout breakfast for all his patrons at the Arcade, and he succeeded, notwithstanding the fact that he spoiled his first fish at Truckee.

Our genial friend with number eleven shoes (child's size) kept very quiet, and hauled in his line with the snailly and de-mearnor with which he measures off forty-four yards of calico; in fact, Sol Levy was one of the most successful fishermen of the combination. Dr. Mullen was the happiest man, and probably the laziest man in the crowd. He had a willow stick hung out of the side of the boat with a miniature sleigh bell on it, and when the fish would bite the "jank" would ring the bell, and the Doctor would sing "Don't You Hear Dem Belle a Ringing?"

Take it all in all, the party had a most enjoyable time, and were royally entertained by Dr. W. P. Fonda, of the Independence Hotel, who has accommodations for from fifty to one hundred people, a good cook, good meals, fine attendance, comfortable beds, billiards, piano, croquet, boats and everything conducive to the enjoyment of a trip of pleasure to the mountain lakes, with very reasonable rates.

The editor is not expected to make any report of the purchase of a livery stable in Truckee by this party. Enco.

No More Bounty for Sculp.

The Board of Commissioners of Elko county resolved to pay no more bounty for the sculp of noxious animals. It is hardly the correct thing for a Board of County Commissioners to refuse to obey a law, but if the Legislature had acted sensibly and fairly it would have left it to the discretion of the Board of Commissioners to pay or not to pay a bounty on sculp.

"He Is Welcome."

The Seattle Times of the 14th says: Judge S. D. King, a prominent attorney of Reno, Nevada, arrived per Walla Walla on Saturday, and with his wife, is a guest at the Rainier. Judge King was in Seattle several weeks ago, having come to the Puget Sound region with a view to locating in the most desirable of our enterprising cities. Having visited them all, he wisely chose Seattle, and returned home to close up his business affairs. He will henceforth be "one of us." Judge King is an attorney of high standing, and a gentleman of excellent reputation in Nevada, where he has lived since boyhood.

Sawdust.

The Reno JOURNAL complains that the Truckee river is full of sawdust from the mills. The JOURNAL should wear glasses. The substance in the stream is shavings. There is no law against putting shavings in the river.—Truckee Republican.

The JOURNAL needs no glasses to distinguish a "hawk from a handsaw" nor sawdust from shavings, although both may be seen every day floating down the river, and the dumping of either in the stream is equally a violation of the law.

A New Railroad.

The Austin Reveille has this:
By private communication received at this office yesterday we were informed that the Rio Grande Company are preparing to commence building the road from Salt Lake through White Pine and Nye counties, running through Inyo county to Los Angeles, California. This is good news, and beyond a doubt it is correct.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the sympathetic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced."
